

CORBOULD OF BATH.

SECTION VII.

CORBOULD OF BATH

The youngest son of Richard and Martha Corbould (see Section II) was RICHARD CORBOULD, b. 1714, bapt. at Cotton 26 April 1714, d. 13 March 1814 in his 100th year, having had two sons :—

1. WILLIAM CORBOULD, of Eye Clint and Syleham, Suffolk, b. circa 1740, d. after 1791. Married by licence at Syleham, 22 Dec. 1775, SARAH WELTON, of Eye, widow, and had two daughters, the elder married Mr. KNEWITT of Stradbroke, and the younger married Mr. THEOBALD of Syleham.
2. PELHAM CORBOULD, of Monks Hall, Syleham, now a farmhouse, born c. 1741. He was famous for his lavish hospitality, and this was continued by his widow CATHERINE . . . until her death at the age of 90. She married 2ndly, James Walne, of Monks Hall, who died aged 95.

R. T. Corbould in his diary describes Mr. and Mrs. Walne as “a pair of the most hospitable people in Suffolk or any other county.”

On the death of Mrs. Catherine Walne the following verses appeared in the “Ipswich Journal” :—

Syleham, indeed, a heavy loss deplores !
But not alone ; for every parish round,
Walne's name, if not his residence, adores,
And owns a loss with sympathy profound.

O I have join'd the hospitable board,
And often view'd the venerable pair ;
Exulting that their gifts they could afford,
And so much bounty from their substance spare.

One soul directed both ; let who would come,
A friend or worldling, both alike appear'd,
And never guest but found himself at home,
In gladness welcom'd, and in sorrow cheer'd.

It seemed a favour to partake their fare,
And such abundance greeted ev'ry guest,
That was their heaven, promptly to prepare
A room for feasting and a room for rest.

Nor care nor poverty had need to fawn,
Or cringe for proud and ostentatious aid ;
A look, a word, from " Aunt " or " Uncle " Walne,
The very fears of poverty allay'd.

Dear, good old man ! Thy years so honor'd blest
I would the moisture from thy forehead wipe ;
And still, beside thee, with an honest jest,
Enjoy the social converse with a pipe.

Sustain his years ye kindred souls who own
The honour due to age and manly worth ;
There is, I know, a coveted renown,
A boast of heaven and a scorn of earth.

Springing from sources that I've not explored,
There is, of human worth, a saintly dread ;
But if " Aunt Walne " were honor'd and adored,
T'were less than human, not to weep her dead.

- Hoxne Abbey is built on the site of a wooden chapel in which the body of St. Edmund lay until its removal to Bury St. Edmunds. The tradition of the place asserts that King Edmund hid from the Danes under a bridge over the river Dove, now called Gold Bridge, and that a newly-married couple, crossing the bridge by moonlight, saw the reflection of the King's golden spurs in the water, and betrayed him. St. Edmund accordingly pronounced a curse on every couple who should cross the bridge on their way to be married; and a wide circuit was made by any prospective bride and bridegroom in order to avoid it.
- The following legend, apparently concerning the Pelham family, ancestors of the Corboulds of Hoxne, has been handed down through several generations of the Corboulds of Bath: One of the Pelhams was knighted. His son would not marry the heiress chosen for him by his father, who disinherited him in consequence. Soon after this the Press Gang got hold of him as a young man; but he deserted and got away abroad. He came to England a few years afterwards in disguise and was known in Bristol as "the dark gentleman who rode a white horse."
- PELHAM CORBOULD resided at Hoxne Abbey at the close of the 18th century. He was born c. 1765 and died at Hoxne Abbey 5 Oct. 1811. By his wife, a daughter of Dr. RUTTER, he had :—

Believed to have retired from the medical profession on his succession to the business of "Pelham Corbould," brewers, maltsters, distillers, and merchants, of Harleston, Norfolk. Churchwarden at Redenhall in 1851. Died at Redenhall 21 March 1864, will proved at Norwich 20 May 1864. Married MARY . . ., of Great Yarmouth, who died there 10 July 1884 aged 86. Her will was proved at Norwich by C. A. Duckett, Esq., M.D., on 20 Sep. 1884. They had :—

2. JOHN CORBOULD, of Margate, Kent, and 8, Oxford Row, Bath. Born at Palgrave, Norfolk, and afterwards lived at Diss, Norfolk, and 7 and 32, Milsom Street, Bath.
- As a small boy he was taken by his father (who always wore breeches, long stockings and shoes with buckles) to Norwich Cathedral and was shewn a very old monument to an ancestor of the Corboulds. In 1880 only the surname remained on this ancient tablet.
- He died 4 May 1872 at 8, Oxford Row, Bath. His will is dated 5 Jan. 1867, and was proved at Bristol Nov. 1 1872 by Frederick Morris, jun., of 22, Milsom Street, Bath.
3. JESSE CORBOULD, of Southbroom Place, Devizes, Wilts, and 37, Broad Street, Bath, gent., d. at Devizes 10 Dec. 1884, will pr. at Salisbury 21 Jan. 1885 by J. A. Smith and G. Salway. He married Mrs. NAOMI HUNT, a widow with four children. She owned property in Devizes, including 11 and 12, Britley. She died at Devizes 18 Nov. 1875. Her will, dated 3 Dec. 1874, was proved at Salisbury 24 March 1876.
4. ELIZABETH CORBOULD, died before 1861.
5. THOMAS CORBOULD of the Bluecoat School and Corbould's Academy, and of 16, Crescent Fields, Bath, died at Bath, 3 March 1871.

The Pelham Corboulds and the Corboulds of Fitzroy Square had not met for many years when George James Corbould the Artist was walking in Bath with a friend named Smith, who began talking about surnames. Corbould turned to his companion and remarked "Go where you will, you'll always find Smiths but you rarely see the name Corbould anywhere." He had no sooner said this when his friend replied "Do not be so sure of that, for what do you read over that doorway." It was "CORBOULD'S ACADEMY." Thos. Corbould married . . . COUSINS, who d. at Bath 13 March 1871, having had :—

Was on the Broken Hill silver fields 1885, and afterwards visited Great Britain, the United States, Austria, Japan, France, Canada, Germany and China for the purpose of studying mining, geological formations and metallurgical works.

In 1893 he walked from Fremantle, Western Australia, to the Coolgardie goldfields (some 300 odd miles). On the field, water was selling at 1s. to 2s. per gallon, a 1 lb. loaf of bread cost 1s. 6d. ; the price of everything else was in the same proportion.

In recent years he was the directing spirit, in its early period, of Mt. Isa Mines, Ltd., Queensland, a company with a capital of 3,000,000 shares of £1 each. The proved ore reserve, which is the fundamental asset of the business, already places Mt. Isa as one of the greatest lead-zinc deposits of the world, and this can be increased at any time as the full extent of the ore-bodies have not as yet been delimited. It has been necessary to expend over £3,540,000 to develop and equip Mt. Isa on a scale commensurate with the importance of the mines, and in order to ensure that production costs will compare favourably with any producer of first rank importance.

In an article headed "The Makers of Mt. Isa," one of the leading Brisbane newspapers recorded that Mr. J. C. Miles found Mt. Isa ; but it was left to Mr. W. H. Corbould to bring it to the notice of the big international mining groups of the world, and he it was who had the technical knowledge and sufficient imagination to see the wealth of the ore, and to realize that only capital reckoned in millions could exploit successfully the low-grade deposits.

He married at Folkestone, Kent, England, UNA RUBINA, of Sydney, New South Wales, dau. of Lieut. Henry DODDS, R.N. (who settled in N.S.W., and took up land there), and had issue :—
